The Principal's Print

Good afternoon,

Another excellent week of learning as the rain fell down! Despite the rain, the children have continued their brilliant work ethos and continue to show our current values of Independence and Perseverance. We push these values to ensure our young people remain life-long learners!

Half of Diamond class have returned after a fun packed school journey-please check the website for the pictures. It was an action packed week and the start of a new tradition of School Journeys that we hope will become the norm at Essendon going forward. The pupils that stayed also had a fun packed week of activities called "Staycation." The children were tested by the activities and the weather and this all made it the challenge that we want our young people to go through. We managed to tick off quite a few parts of the Essendon Pledge. Next week sees the start of both the Football and Netball seasons so some pupils will be very very busy! A big thank you in advance to all the parents that will undoubtedly help with transport. Please remember its Parents evenings next Monday and Tuesday and the Disco including food at just five pounds -is next Friday the 13th.

Hope to see you at Parents Evenings next week and after the Disco! Thanks for your continued support. You are amazing!!
